The very neat and handy desk calendar issued by the Hongkong FireInsurance Company, Limited, for 1890 was greatly appreciated, being still in use in most offices in the Ear East, and those who have found it a convenience will be glad to welcome its successor for 1891, which is in exactly the same form and style.

The British gunboats Linnet and Firebrand returned to port yesterday afternoon after an unsuccessful search for the Namoa pirates. The course taken by the former gunboat was, we understand, to the southward and eastward, whilst the latter gunboat went north, touching at several places. At Lam Shu Bay a number of Bhaukiwan fishing junks were met with, and on Mendoza Island the Pinhoi people were unable to given any further partionlars than what is already known regarding the junks that were seen in the vicinity of the Island on the 10th just. At another place named Kanto the inhabitants had never heard of the affair, the was maintained to the finish. We learn that the Hongkong Hotel Company are subdividing their present shares of $100 each into shares of $50, and intend to increase the subscribed capital to $600,000 by issuing 6,000 new shares at 20 per cent. premium, one half of which, that is $25 per share, together with half the premium, to be payable on the 31st March.

The Yokobama papers state that the latest information relative to the N. Y. K. steamer Tokio Maru, which is badly ashore at the south of Suenosaki, near Noshima, is that there is some hope of getting her off, but she is considerably damaged. It is already known that one of her bilges is badly stove in. The steamer Iso Maru has also been ashore at Tsutsianki, but was got off without serious damage.

The Japan Daily Herald understands that news has been received from home that the representative in England of the Yokohama community has presented to the Marquis of Salisbury the resolutions adopted at the recent public meeting, and has received from the Prime Minister an assurance that the views of the residents will receive due attention whenever the time for consideration of the subject shall arrive-

There was a crowded house in the Theatre Royal on Thursday night, whon Signor Majeroni, supported by the Stanley Opera Company, produced the drama of the "Old Corporal." The performance was an unqualified success, and the impersonation by Signor Majeroni of Corporal Simon was a genuine piece of artistic acting of the highest type. The audience were enthusiastic and the success so complete that it has been arranged to give a repetition of the drams on Tuesday night, when those who failed to see this really fine representation will be afforded a last opportunity of doing so.

The Tokyo Jiyu Shimbun says:-If the Cabinet should approve of a proposal put before it by Viscount Aoki as to certain changes in the diplomatic service, a very important step will be taken. The new measure will involve the transformation of the Japanese representatives at the Courts of England, France, Germany, Austrin, Russia, the United States, &c., into Shinnin-kwan (officers appointed directly by the Emperor). Their terms of office will be extended from three to five or seven years, and they will thus be enabled to acquire more extensive and varied knowledge of the countries to which they are accredited, while the heavy expenditure necessitated by frequent changes of Ministers will be avoided. A difficult point will be encountered in finding men suitable for these posts, The purest ingredients only are used, and but it seems that the names of Viscount the utmost care and cleanliness are exercised in | Enomoto, Viscount Miura, and Mr. Hanabusa have so far been received with approval, and in all probability two members of the present Cabinet will be deputed to represent their country abroad, so that indirectly the changes will create vacancies in the Central Government.

Mr. A. J. Leach, who appeared on behalf of the Acting Attorney-General, prosecuted, and in opening the case said the prisoner was charged with stealing seven pieces of clothing. The case was a very simple one. The complainant gave the prisoner, who was a working tailor, the GINGERADE | clothing to make up into pants and so forth. The garments not being returned in an ordinary time, the complainant went to the prisoner's house on the 19th January but found the prisoner had gone. Information was given to the police and the clothing was found in several pawnshops of the colony. The pri-[2-19 soner was not again seen till about the middle of November, when he was arrested and charged. The evidence of the complainant together with that of several pawnbrokers, to whom the clothing had been pawned, was then taken. The prisoner made a statment admitting pawning the clothing, but said he had paid $26 to the complainant's family in order that he should not be proceeded against, The jury returned a unanimous verdict of

When the prisoner was arrested his clothing and hands smelt of kerosine, and it was afterwards found that kerosine had been made use of at the fire.

Loung Kow, cook, who at the time in question The following has been added to the orders of lived in the house, gave evidence of hearing a quarrel between the prisoner and a woman, and also as to his (witness) striking the prisoner twice. A NEW WATERING-PLACE FOR HONGKONG TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DILY PEESS."

SIR,-Hongkong harbour is doubtless a valuable possession, but it forms/anything but an attractive watering-place. The chief attraction to the seaside is the sea sand, the advancing and receding tide, the bathing, the wading without shoes and stockings, the sitting or lying on the beach in the midstof children and sunshades. We cannot have all this in Hongkong, but we might occasionally enjoy an approach to it. If we get the "Jubilee Road," Deep liny on the south side of the island may become as attractive as Scarborough. I wonder how many of our population have been there by land? A very smallproportion. For all purposes of pleasure Victoris is certainly on the wrong side of the island. We used to swear at the hill for coming between us and the summer wind. Some have since been fortunate enough to surmount the difficulty by ascending the Peak, and spending there sixteen hours of week days and the whole of Sundays. This is very much like three mouths out of four; and for those who can manage it, this is a wondrous alleviation to the summer's heat. But there are very many who cannot do it. and for them how great a boon it would be, could they occasionally take a run, at small expense, round to the other side. Houses of entertainment would soon spring up, and the juniors by spending the week end, or Sunday, or an occassional off day there, would enjoy a change the benefit of which would be incalculable. The increased sobriety of the English people is not a little owing to the growth of cheap excursion trains, and their influence in drawing holiday makers away from the local public-houses. It has been truly said that holidays in Hongkong are of little or no use because there is nowhere to go. This would not be true if we had a good pionic house at the Gap, at the south end of the Wong-nei-chong Valley, and a good carriage road to it. We should then be within a short distance of Deep Bay and the charming walks, rides, and drives in its neighbourhood. Instead of our going over to Macao, the Macao people would want to be coming here. The first thing appears to me to be to get a sur-

The court room was densely crowded with relations and friends of the parties to the suit, and a throng of curious spectators. Messrs. McCall was present to take charge of the interests of Mrs. Steel, sinter of Mrs. O'Shea. Mr. Paruell was neither present nor represented by counsel when the court was opened, and only one prominent person connected with the case as principal was present Captain O'Shea. The counsel for the respondent, Mrs. O'Shea, stated that it was not his intention to cross-examine any witness or to call any witness on the part of his client, nor would be participate in the proceedings. An immense sensation was caused by this announcement, as the action of the defence condemns Mr. Parnell to pay very heavy costs. The course pursued by Mr. Lockwood, counsel for Mrs. O'Shea, in abandoning all intention either to pross-examine or call witnesses on behalf of the defence, has very materially altered the position of the famous case. Mr. Clarke, counsel for Capt. O'Shes, in calling attention to the changed condition of affairs, said that the prosecution found itself in court with no respondent to paricipate in the conduct of the defence. In response to a question by Mr. Justice Butt, Mr. Clurke said the counsel for the plaintiff had een unable to find that any one was in court to ppear for Mr. Parnell, and that the suit would herefore seem to be undefended. "In June, 1889, whilst living at Moredown, Bournemouth, I had a worse attack than any I had before. I was taken with a feeling of cramp, as if pins and needles were running into me, all over my body. I could not move, and had to lie helpless in bed. The doctor was sent for, and attended me every day, but did not seem to know what to make of my case. In fact, he was puzzled, and finally said, 'I don't really know what your complaint is. " I trembled and shook and felt as if I should fall to pieces. I was first hot and then cold, and so dreadfully nervous I could not bear any one in the room with me, and yet I did not wish them far away in case I should oul out for help.

Every time one of these spasms came on I said to myself, 'I am su: e I shall never get up again.' "I took nothing but liquid food, and yet oould due bere in the sairly port of Pehruary. All the par retein even that on my atomach. By this

Captain Denison elected to "gn-to-the dogs." Reckless whilst the money-lasted he became even more reckless when it was all spent, for finding himself no longer capable of supporting his position as an officer holding the Queen's commission, he disappeared from the army when, curious'y enough. Fortune, which had frowned on him bitherto, began to smile upon him after he had adopted the life of a professional gambler and adventurer.

He was endowed with a handsome presence, marred only by too pronounced aquiline features that earned for him in certain circles the nickname of "Captain Vulture." Notwithstanding this defect he was a man of agreeable and polished address, with hosts of acquaintances who passed for friends. His reputation did not suffer from the evil rumours that attacked the ruck of gamblers The worst that was said of him was that "he had the devil's own luck." But it was not to be inferred from this that he played with loaded dice or was guilty of any malpractice that could untit him for the society of gentlemen. In short, Captain Denison contrived to keep on the safe side of that fine line that divides the gambler. pure and simple, from the level of the blackleg.

He was on his way to Monte Carlo, and was staving for a few days in Paris en route, when shance-directed his footsteps one day to the Louvre. Captain Denison cared little for pictures and statuary, and as for the jargon of "bigh art" he understood it as little as he understood Chinese. But he was ennuye, and with a few moments to spare he thought he could not do better than escape from the scorohing Bouleurds for a quiet stroll through the galleries of the Louvre, in one of which he first encountered Winifred West.

Winifred was engaged in making a small replica of a war picture whilst her father, sitting in his wheelchair close by, occupied himself with his Galignani. Captain Denison's first impression was one of amusement to see so youthful tyro of the aris engaged upon what, even to his immature understanding, was evidently an ambitious attempt. But the next moment his amusement gave place to admiration as his eye caught the beautiful face of the youthful artist and the flowing lines of her building figure. He became so absorbed in watching her that he failed to notice the invalid sitting in the wheelchair, until altering his position in order to obtain a closer view of Winifred's face he

TOWNGLISH AND CHINES 'DIC'''IONARY. WITH THE PUNTL AND MANDSEIN -Pronunciation. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Ajax, British str., 1,500, E. Rawlings, Dec. 18, Daily Press - Office, Hongkong .-For comprehensiveness and practical service

this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, Bealemond, Srit. str., 1,735, Thomson, Dec. 16 and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are Brindisi, British str., 2,129, H. Street, Dec. 18 here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises Changaha, British atr., 1,346, Williams, Dec. 11 for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given Cheang Hock Kian, British str., 956, Grenfell the accents being earefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography Cheeng Hye Teng, British str., 923. Scott lisplays the success of an attempt to make the | Sent. 1. Chiusse Chinese and English type correspond in the size Choysang, British str., 1,191, Bawer, Dec. 17, of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously Clars, German str., 687, Christenson, Dec. 13 attained, and dispensing with those vast margins

To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration :--Chaimers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst Frejr, Danish str., 397, C. A. Lund, Dec. 19 this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the Haitan, British str., 1,183, S. Ashton, Dec. 19. student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various appli-cations and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples Heungshap, British str., 1,054, Brock, June 20

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work-is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. lo parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasion-It comprises upwards of two thousand large quarto pages.
